Hindi movies spanish.[@ref36] To explain its mechanism, we may consider the presence of a strong correlation between the surface curvature and the curvature anisotropy, which causes a preferred orientation of the capillary columns perpendicular to the surface convexity. It is generally thought that the most significant changes in muscle oxygen extraction occur with shifting from lying to standing.[@ref37] In the brachial artery, blood flow is driven primarily by arteriolar resistance and it therefore changes predominantly due to changes in the caliber of these vessels. Changes in the orientation of capillaries affect the probability of blood flow over an axis parallel to the surface. The most significant decrease in blood flow occurs while the bed undergoes 90° rotation.[@ref38] According to the literature, this is the optimal position for the brachial artery.[@ref23],[@ref39] As noted in the previous paragraph, the SV is known to be sensitive to posture and position changes. On the other hand, other studies have noted that SV is relatively insensitive to posture changes in the ankle position.[@ref40] A direct
